Diversity & Inclusion

Irell & Manella has always been committed to building a diverse and inclusive law firm and creating an environment where attorneys of all races, ethnicities, gender identities and sexual orientations can thrive. This focus permeates our culture and has resulted in a population of attorneys from a variety of backgrounds and one of the highest percentages of minority partners for law firms in the United States. All partners are equity partners, and many women and minority partners have served on the firm’s Executive Committee and in other firm leadership positions, including as managing partner. Irell’s commitment to diversity has a long history—the firm had one of the first African American equity partners of any major law firm in Los Angeles and one of the nation’s first Asian American managing partners.

Irell is regularly recognized for its achievements in diversity and inclusion. For instance, The American Lawyer consistently ranks Irell as among the most diverse law firms in the nation, most recently ranking us #14 out of 220 on the 2020 Diversity Scorecard. Irell also had the highest percentage of minority partners of any of the firms surveyed, according to the data published by The American Lawyer.

“Irell & Manella is focused on delivering the highest quality legal services and achieving excellence through diligence and creativity. Our attorneys are hired and evaluated based on the quality of their work. This focus has penetrated our culture and resulted in a population of attorneys from a variety of backgrounds.”

– Kyle Kawakami, Irell & Manella Diversity Chair

Consisting of partners and associates from both offices, Irell & Manella’s Diversity Committee is dedicated to promoting an institutional culture that fosters the recruitment, advancement and development of a diverse population that reflects our larger community. The committee is responsible for recommending and implementing strategies to further diversity and inclusion, and its goals align closely with those of the Women’s Network, Associates Committee and Executive Committee. The Diversity Committee also sponsors a number of events and trainings targeted at inclusion, including sessions on unconscious bias and featuring key figures and diverse attorneys who are making a difference. Additionally, the firm offers Diversity Scholarship Awards of $15,000 to a select number of second year law students who, in addition to meeting certain criteria, receive and accept an offer to participate in the firm’s summer program.
